Top award for insolvency journal.

December 2009

The Insolvency Journal won the Best Professional Services Website category at this year's Golden Spider awards. The site was recognised for its high quality presentation of relevant content and its smart use of effective and appropriate technology.

"The judges thought what is striking about insolvencyjournal.ie is the quality of its execution. Great content, up-to-date, with very high quality visuals used to illustrate data. It is a fantastic example of how good content can keep browsers on the site and more importantly coming back for more,".

The Golden Spider Awards, now in their 13th year, are Ireland's premier internet and web awards and honour Irish individuals and organizations for their outstanding achievements online. The awards have come to be recognised as a benchmark of excellence in the online industry.

Other winners of the Golden Spider Awards included Colm Ryan, internet entrepreneur and founder of Realex payments, who won the Internet Hero award and Muzu.tv which picked up the Grand Prix Award.
